handmade GALLERIES LA at the Heart of Sherman Oaks Street Fair

Sherman Oaks, CA ... Sunday, October 21, handmade GALLERIES LA will be at the very heart of the Sherman Oaks Street Fair. The family event begins at 10:00 am and hosts a variety of foods, artists, craftsmen, and local retail exhibits.

Handmade GALLERIES LA will host an open house featuring artists on hand to assist in making your own sock monkeys, and for chat and inspiration. Additionally, a wide variety of Halloween-inspired crafts, decorations, and gifts are available for sale. The gallery is currently featuring the skull-themed work of noted Skellramics artists Natasha and Kelly, who specialize in a wide range of collectibles they have been making since 1990. The unconventional pieces are perfect Halloween or Day of the Dead gifts. Choices run from one of a kind and limited edition ceramics to gift cards, sterling silver jewelry and hand-screened shirts for all ages, and useful household items and fine art. Handmade GALLERIES LA offers the largest physical display of their work available locally.

Handmade GALLERIES LA is a light, airy boutique, containing over 5,000 square feet of individual works by nationally recognized and locally established artists. These artists feature handmade and well-made pieces, unique collectibles, fun erotica, trendy new items and gifts. Handmade GALLERIES LA has been owned and operated by Andy Spyros since 1995, a versatile voice of the retail experience. This entrepreneurial mom is a graduate of University of Michigan Business School, and now resides in the San Fernando Valley with her husband and two creative children: Zoë the up-and-coming rock star-scientist and James who is currently too concerned with walking to focus on his career.
